

In Today's World Reading is a Life Skill

Reading is everywhere! Whether we are reading a book, newspaper, on a phone or a computer, reading is an essential life skill.

Regardless of what we read, or where we read it, reading is a complex interaction between language, text and meaning. When people say they “can’t read” after a brain injury, it’s not always that they can’t read individual words, it’s that they miss that complex relationship.

Speech Language Pathologists understand reading as a complex and necessary skill and know how to help.

*Speech Language Pathologists are
The Communication Experts*

