

Just One Friend...

Research tells us that when kids have just one friend they do better after an Acquired Brain Injury (ABI). For kids with communication difficulties making and keeping that friend is hard. Sometimes kids with ABI have trouble understanding jokes, keeping up in the classroom or 'acting their age'.

Speech Language Pathologists help people to get back the communication skills they need to get back to school. We help with

Reading and remembering course work

Keeping organized and on top of assignments

Explaining things clearly

And most importantly, being a friend.
